Technical Data

The Weldmax 125VP is an advanced inverter power source which is robust and reliable for industrial applications where domestic use and construction sites have only a 10A power supply available. A lightweight portable inverter welder designed for onsite maintenance applications on 10AMP Power Supply.

The built in “Total Protection Device” saves the inverter components from over voltage and makes it suitable for use with unstable power supplies and generators.

Designed for welding all kinds or covered electrodes under the most demanding environmental conditions.
